

Web Publishing Sites for Student Work

1. KidPub

<http://www.kidpub.org/kidpub>

A site containing 40,000 stories written by students around the world. Easy to upload stories and privacy is guarded.

2. Electronic Elementary

<http://www.inform.umd.edu/mdK-12/homepers/emag>

Sponsored by the University of Maryland, featuring original work by children in the elementary grades.

3. MidLink Magazine

<http://longwood.cs.ucf.edu/~MidLink>

Known as the “Digital Magazine by Kids for Kids,” sponsored by SAS Institute, North Carolina State University, and the University of Central Florida. This site publishes work from students aged 8-18.

4. Education Place

<http://www.eduplace.com/tales>

Students age 6 to 12 can enter words to create wacky Web tales (similar to ad libs).

5. Kids Talk About

<http://www.kidscom.com/create/write/write.html>

Students are given the character, place, and a prop. Then they need to use them to write a story.

6. The Case.com for Kids

<http://www.thecase.com/kids>

This site emphasizes the mystery genre for students aged 12 and younger with monthly writing contests, mysteries to solve, and scary stories to read.

7. Frodo's Notebook

<http://wow-schools.net/frodosnotebook>

Primarily for the 13 to 19-year-old age group, this site was founded and is maintained by Daniel Klotz.

8. Teen Ink

<http://teenink.com>

The Young Authors Foundation sponsors this publishing site for teenagers.

9. Electric Soup

<http://homer.hcrhs.k12.nj.us/esoup/index.html>

This is an online magazine that publishes original work from secondary students.